Henry was formed in 1777 from Pittsylvania and named in honor of Patrick Henry. It is almost perfect square, and borders on the State of North Carolina, with Franklin county on the north, Pittsylvania on the east and Patrick on the west. Smith and Mayo rivers and their branches water the county in all its parts. Danville & Western division of the Southern Railway traverses the county from east to west and the Norfolk & Western Railway from north to south, furnishing amply facilities for transportation. Tobacco, corn and hay are the principle productions. Good crops of oats, rye and wheat are also produced. The dairy, orchard and garden yield is varied and valuable. Horses, cattle and sheep of fine breeds and in large numbers are raised.

The minerals are iron, coal, mica, kaolin and soapstone. The timbers are oak, hickory and pine. Woodworking factories of various kinds are in operation over the county, the largest furniture factory in the South is located at Martinsville, also large cotton at Martinsville. Mica mines are being run at full force and are numerous. Kaolin of good quality in abundance. Many improved roads being built. We have streams with valuable undeveloped water power.

Number voters—White, 1,117; colored, 40.
Area—Acres, 292,459; square miles, 438.
County Seat—Monterey.

Highland county was formed from Bath and Pendleton counties in 1847, and is situated on the western border of the State with Bath on the south and Augusta on the east the West Virginia line forming its northern and western boundaries. The county is but sparsely settled, as it is very mountainous; but there are fertile valleys between the mountains which produce sufficeint quantity of the staple products for home consumption, with some for market. Most of the fruit crops that can be grown in this latitude may be profitably cultivated by proper attention. The grazing quality of the land can hardly be surpassed by any county in the State while the mountains furnish ample range for young stock during the summer seasons. Iron, coal and marble are the principal minerals.

James City county is located between the York and James rivers, and was one of the original shires. New Kent is on the north, Surry on the south. York and Warwick on the east, and Charles City on the west. It was the first county settled (at Jamestown, 1607) by the English in this State, and was formerly possessed of great wealth. The Chesapeake and Ohio Railway passes through its centre from east to west, bringing it into convenient and quick communication with other sections. The products of the county are corn, oats, fruit and vegetables. The oyster, crab, shad, herring and sturgeon fisheries give employment to a number of men and are important articles of food.

Number voters—White, 805; colored, 460.

Area—Acres, 111,435; square miles, 191.

County Seat—King George.

King George was formed in 1720 from Richmond, and lies between the Potomac, which divides it from the State of Maryland on the northeast, and the Rappahannock river, which forms the boundary between it and Caroline county on the south; Westmoreland county is on the east and Stafford on the west. The lands are generally good, especially those on the rivers, and corn, oats, tobacco and wheat are raised in considerable quantities. The dairy, orchard and garden products yield and pay well. The Potomac and Rappahannock rivers run on the northern and southern borders. These rivers, on which there are regular lines of steamers and many sailing vessels, and their several navigable creeks, afford ready and economical means of access to the markets of Fredericksburg via the Rappahannock and Alexandria, Washington, Baltimore and the North via the Potomac river. A telephone line is in operation, running from Fredericksburg through the county.

County Seat—King and Queen C. H.

King and Queen was formed in 1691 from New Kent, during the reign of William and Mary, from which fact it takes its names. The county is divided from King William by the Mattaponi river, which skirts its entire southwestern border. The Piankitank on the east separates it from Middlesex. Essex county is on the north and Caroline on the northwest. There are no railroads in the county, but a steamer plying three times a week between Walkerton and West Point, at the head of York river, which has railroad connection with Richmond and daily connection by steamers with Baltimore, affords convenient facilities of travel and transportation. The soil is very good and extensive marl beds found in various sections furnish ready means of improvement. The adaptability of the soil and the convenience of transportation by water is rapidly developing the raising of fruits and trucks for market There are a number of canneries along the Mattaponi river, packing fruits and vegetables, affording a market for these products. Sheep husbandry is profitable. Corn, wheat, oats, rye and hay are successfully raised. Along the banks of the Mattaponi are the ruins of many private residences of persons distinguished in colonial days.

There is abundance of timber of pine, oak, hickory, walnut, beech and ash variety.

Value of personal property—White, $719,595; colored, $103,227. Total, $822,822.

Income—$5,160.

Population, 1916—9,752.

Number voters—White, 1,356; colored, 1,366.

Area—Acres, 82,848; square miles, 124.

County Seat—Lancaster.

Lancaster county was first mentioned in the Acts of Assembly with Gloucester and Surry in 1652, and must have been formed in that year from Northumberland county. It lies on the north side of the Rappahannock, which separates it from Middlesex county on the south; a portion of the eastern part of the county is bounded by the Chesapeake Bay, with Northumberland and Richmond counties on the north. The courthouse is situated in the northern part of the county and about eighty-three miles northeast of Richmond.

The land produce fair average crops of corn, oats and wheat. The surface is rolling and well watered. Its continguity to navigable waters renders transportation cheap.

Courts

The Circuit Court meets at the Courthouse the third Monday in January, March, May, July, September and November

Lee was formed 1792 from Russell, and named in honor of Henry Lee, then Governor. It lies on the eastern slope of the Cumberland mountains at the extreme southwestern angle of the State. The States of Kentucky and Tennessee bound it on the north and south and Scott and Wise counties on the east. The western part is very mountainous and the land unimproved, but the eastern and valley portions are quite fertile and produce good and abundant crops of corn, oats, rye and wheat and the grasses. Some tobacco of fine grade is also raised. The orchard and dairy yield handsome revenue. The county is well watered by the headwaters of Powells river, which also furnish a means for the transportation of grain and the forest product to market. The minerals found in this county are , iron (red and brown hematite) coal barytes and salt. The timbers are white oak much being the natural growth, and every variety of wood to be found in any other county in the State.

Loudoun was founded in 1757 from Fairfax, It lies on the eastern slope of the Blue Ridge Mountains, which divide it from Clarke county, Va., and Jefferson county, West Va, Its other border counties are Fauquier and Prince William on the south, and and its mother county on the east. The Potomac river waters and skirt its entire northern border, and the Washington and Bluemont division, Southern Railway traverses its central portion from east to west, bringing it into easy communication with other sections and furnished means of transportation for the very great quality of grain and the large number of number of fine raised in it. The lands are immensely rich and productive. Loudoun takes first rank in the production of Indian corn, averaging one and a quarter million bushels annually. County seat—Louisa.

Louisa was formed in 1742 from Hanover, and is situated in a rapidly improving and fertile section of the State. The counties of Orange and Spotsylvania are on the north, Fluvanna and Goochland on the south, Albemarle on the west and Hanover on the east. The North Anna river is on the north and the South Anna river flows through the southern part of the county. The Chesapeake and Ohio railway traverses the middle part from east to west, bringing into convenient communication with Richmond city, its principal market, and connecting at Gordonsville in Orange county, on the edge of this county, with all rail to the north and west. The lands in this county are well adapted to the raising of wheat, especially that part in the northeast known as the "Green Spring" section, which is thought to have no superior in the State. Corn in paying quantity and some oats are raised. Considerable attention is paid to the cultivation of tobacco, of which two million pounds annually are raised. The minerals found are gold, silver, iron, copper, lead, sulphur, mica and sandstone. The sulphur and copper mines are being worked with profit. The timbers grown are pine, oak, walnut, maple and ash.

County Seat—Madison.

Madison was formed from Culpeper in 1792. The Blue Ridge mountains form its western boundary dividing it from Page. The Rapidan river is on the southeast, seperating it from Orange, while the counties of Rappahannock and Culpeper are on the east and Greene on the west. The Rapidan, Robison and Conway rivers and their branches water the county. The lands, especially those on the rivers, are very productive, and yield good crops of corn, oats, wheat, rye and the grasses. The fruits, garden vegetables, and the dairy yield well, and are important sources of revenue. The Southern Railway, which approaches within one mile of the southeastern corner of the county, is (except county roads, which are kept in excellent condition), the only means by which the products of the county can be conveyed to market. The minerals are copper, lead and soapstone.

County Seat—Mathews.

This county was formed in 1790 from Gloucester. It is a peninsular lying between the Chesapeake bay on the east and Mobjack bay and North river on the west. The Piankatank river is on the northern boundary, thus almost completely surrounding it by water. The East river, which runs through the county about its central part, divides it into two nearly equal parts, called East and West Mathews. Gloucester county is on the west, and Middlesex, the only other county adjoining, lies on the north across the Piankatank river.

A fair crop of corn is grown, and some oats, wheat and rye, but not enough to supply home use. The soil is sandy loam, is very easily cultivated, and responds readily to fertilizers. It is particularly adapted to the raising of truck and garden vegetables. The county is renowned for the superior excellence and quantity of fish of all varieties caught in its estuaries, river and creeks, and in the two broad bays that flow on three sides of it. A vast quantity of fish are used for fertilizer. They are either ground up and sown broadcast or are put on the land whole and ploughed under. Next to Northampton its fisheries yield larger product and have greater value than any other county in Virginia, and the average value is greater than Northampton.

The land lying immediately on the water courses is very valuable, selling at from $50 to $200 per acre, if it has an oyster shore attached to it.

Mecklenburg was formed from Lunenburg in 1764 and the county organized on March 11, 1765. It borders on Warren, Vance and Granville counties in North Carolina, and Halifax, Charlotte, Lunenburg and Brunswick counties in Virginia. The Meherrin river skirts its northern border, whilst the Dan and Staunton unite in its limits at Clarksville and form the Roanoke, which runs through its southern limits. Many fine creeks—branches of these rivers—stretch across the county north and south. These streams abound with fish. The "red horse" and Jack, being only found in tributaries of the Albemarle sounds, are pronounced as the finest fresh-water fish for the table, and furnish the finest of sport to anglers. It is rare that either of these species are found to weigh more than ten pounds.

A great variety of game are numerous. Here perhaps the wild turkey, partridge and deer are as plentiful as anywhere in the South; while the hare, squirrel, opossum, coon, fox, otter, beaver and groundhog furnish food and sport for the hunter and furs for the trapper. The wild goose and duck are still found here during the fall and winter.

In many localities of the county mineral waters have been found, and some of great value. The very earth seems pregnant with flowing undercurrents of health-giving waters, which burst forth from their hidden sources to gratify the thirst and give relief and brighten the life of afflicted humanity. Amongst the most noted of these are the celebrated Buffalo Lithia Springs, whose waters are sold and shipped all over this county and to Europe and used for their potential health-producing and medicinal properties, and the Mecklenburg Mineral Springs, noted for their lithia and Chloride Calcium waters, adapted to a wide range of diseases.

The county being equidistant from the Atlantic coast and the Blue Ridge mountains, escapes the cold winds of the one and the miasmatic influence of the other. The altitude above sea level will average about 500 feet. The atmosphere is salubrious, seasons uniform. The summers are not oppressively warm, nor no long duration of excessive cold weather during the winters. Tornadoes and cyclones are unknown here.

The soil is varied, being red, gray and sandy, and when worn out by injudicious cultivation are easily restored, as it is highly susceptible of improvement. The finest bright tobacco is raised here, also cotton and peanuts, for money crops, and all grains, clovers and grasses.

Boydton, Clarksville, Chase City, South Hill and Lacrosse are in the county and are all fine towns, with populations ranging rom 400 to 2,000. The Norfolk division of the Southern Railway traverses the county a distance of forty-six miles from east to west. The Richmond and Mecklenburg and Clarksville and Durham branches of the Southern Railway runs through the western section of the county and the Seaboard Air Line through the eastern section. The population of the county has increased more rapidly during the past fifteen years than at any time during its history.

Middlesex, in tidewater Virginia was formed from Lancaster in 1672. It lies between the Rappahannock and Piankatank rivers, with the Chesapeake bay on the east, and is 35 miles long, with an average width of 6 miles. The lands are very fertile and are being rapidly improved. Crops of corn, wheat, oats and hay are raised in many parts of the county in great quantity, some farms producing as much clover hay per acre as any in the State. Oysters and fish abound, the trade in them being very large. There is daily communication by steamers with Baltimore, Fredericsburg and Norfolk, and daily mails to every portion of the county. Telephone lines connect with West Point. In the lower part of the county the trucking business is large and profitable. A large percentage of the roads have been improved under the direction of the State Highway Commissioner and this county has some of the best sand-clay roads in the State.

Montgomery was formed in 1776. Craig county bounds it on the north, Floyd on the south, Roanoke on the east, and Giles and Pulaski on the west. Much of the county is mountainous, but that portion susceptible of cultivation is very rich and productive and yields fine crops of corn, oats, wheat, the vegetables, and the dairy and orchard products.

The county is watered by the New river and the headwaters of the Roanoke and traversed by the Norfolk and Western and Virginian railroads, which furnish transportation to the markets of the world.

Blackburg, a prosperous and healthy town, is the seat of the Virginia Polytechnic Institue, which has been endowed by the General Government by liberal donations of public lands, and is the recipient annually of a munificent appropriation by the government of the State. Radford, on the Norfolk & Western railroad, is a thriving town and it contains several large manufacturing establishments. The machine shops of the Norfolk and Western railroad are situated there. The minerals found in the county are iron ore (brown hematite), copper pyrites, gold in gravel, lead ore, coal and millstone. There are several mineral springs in the county, the principle of which are the Montgomery White, the Yellow Sulphur, and the Alleghany Springs.

Nansemond County

Value of real estate, 1916—White, $2,510,795; colored, $395,475. Total, $2,906,270.

Value of personal property—White, $939,474; colored, $130,151. Total, $1,069,625.

Income—$20,761.

Population, 1916—26,886.

Number voters—White, 1,655; colored, 2,446.

Area—Acres, 259,010; square miles, 417.

County Seat—Suffolk.

Nansemond, first called Upper Norfolk, was formed in 1639 from the Isle of Wight. Its name appeared in Acts of Assembly, March, 1645-'6, as Nansimum; in Acts of 1652 as Nanzemond. The name Upper Norfolk was resumed in 1657 and retained until 1661, when Nansemum and subsequently Nansemond was given it. It extends from Hampton Roads on the north to North Carolina line on the south. Norfolk county is on the east and Isle of Wight and Southampton on the west. The Nansemond river extends through and waters the middle and northern portions, and the Blackwater and other tributaries of the Chowan water its southern and western parts. The surface is level and the lands on the rivers are of fine quality. A superior quality of marl in great abundance is found on the borders of the Dismal Swamp and along the rivers. About 65,000 acres of Dismal Swamp are in Nansemond county, of which a survey has been made with a view of draining and reclaiming the land. The productions are corn, oats, wheat, cotton and peanuts. Six lines of railroad traverse the county and are the source of much business prosperity and wealth. Many villages are springing up along the lines of the various railroads, adding to the population, wealth and business of the county. School facilities, both public and private, are excellent.

Various and sundry manufacturing interests are located and doing well. Of course lumber is the prevailing interest.

The town has electric lights, gas, water and sewerage and is an exceedingly healthy location.

The business part of the town is built up solid with brick buildings and the residences of Suffolk will compare favorably with any town in the State.

The town is now growing faster than at any period of its history, and on account of its network of railroads manufacturers are constantly looking over the surroundings with a view of locating.

This county was established in 1807 from Amherst. The James river skirts its northeastern border, separating it from Buckingham, and the Blue Ridge mountains bound it on the west, dividing it from Augusta and Rockbridge counties. Its other border counties are: Albemarle on the northeast, Amherst on the southwest, and Appomattox directly south. The Tye, Ruckers, Run, Rockfish and other rivers, tributaries of the James, extend through and water the county. The Chesapeake and Ohio and Southern railways and Virginia Blue Ridge Railway pass through the county. The lands are very productive, and yield fine crops of buckwheat, corn, rye, oats, wheat, corn, rye, oats, wheat and the grasses, and apples of the best quality. The mountain lands furnish fine pasturage, and horses, cattle and sheep are raised here in large numbers for market. The minerals are iron (red hemite and magnetic), copper, lead, manganese, asbestos, kaolin and soapstone. The timbers are pine, oak, hickory, walnut, chestnut, maple and dogwood.

Norfolk was formed in 1630 from Lower Norfolk. It extends, as does Nansemond, from Hampton Roads on the north to the State of North Carolina on the south. Princess Anne is on the east and Nansemond on the west. Norfolk is the great trucking county of the State. From the record of shipments it is estimated that the value of the annual trucking products is between $8,000,000 and $9,000,000. The soil is rich and moist, and especially adapted to this character of products. Potatoes, apples, peaches, pears, berries and the small fruits thrive here as they do nowhere else in Virginia. The main water courses abound in fish and oysters, which enter largely into the article of consumption as well as of sale. The Elizabeth river is its principal water course, but the whole county is indented by bays, creeks and inlets. The many railroad and steamboat lines afford the people of this county unusually fine transportation facilities. The southern branch of the Elizabeth river is extended south by the Dismal Swamp and Albemarle and Chesapeake canals, making the eastern part of North Carolina tributary to and opening up a convenient, safe and quick line of communication.

Kellam Hospital, Inc.

RICHMOND, - - - - VIRGINIA

The Kellam Hospital is without parallel in the cure of Cancers, Tumors and Chronic Sores, and we want every man and woman in the United States to know that we have cured without the use of the knife, X-ray, radium or acids over 90 per cent. of the many hundreds of sufferers treated during the past 18 years.

Attention is directed particularly to the increase in population in this city, as well as in the outlying territory within a radius of ten miles, which, while not incorporated in the city, is being developed most rapidly as attractive residential area.

The city of Norfolk has taken on renewed life within the past fifteen years; in fact, the increase during that period has been approximately 100 per cent.

The climatic conditions are most equable, there being no such extremes of temperature, either summer or winter, as are found at any Atlantic coast point north thereof. In fact, climatic conditions are so attractive as to permit out-of-door work practically the entire year.

Norfolk is favored with most unusual transportation facilities, being served by eight railroads with a trackage approximating about 42,000 miles—also by twenty-seven steamship lines plying on Chesapeake Bay and tributary rivers as well as coastwise on the Atlantic and to trans-Atlantic territory.

Norfolk is particularly favored as a manufacturing point, as supplementing the transportation facilities referred to, Norfolk is able to furnish electric power to large users at unusually low rates.

Further, general living conditions. Excellent schools, churches, unequaled markets, all tend to make it a point where labor is easily satisfied.

Norfolk is a cosmopolitan city of unusual character, having immediately adjacent thereto seashore resorts of greater prominence than any on the Atlantic coast between New Jersey resorts and Florida.

Places of interest are numerous, and the following facts about the community are of interest:

Portsmouth, the county seat of Norfolk county, is situated on the west bank of the Elizabeth River nine miles from Hampton Roads, with a channel depth of thirty-five feet at low water to the Atlantic ocean; in the heart of the famous trucking section of Tidewater, Virginia, and being on the mainland side of the great harbor of Norfolk-Portsmouth, not cut off by any large body of water, is the principal land outlet for the immense traffic which reaches this section for foreign and coastwise distribution to the principal markets of the world. The three larger trunk lines of the South, i. e., Southern Railway, Atlantic Coast Line Railroad, and the Seaboard Air Line Railway, have their terminals in the city proper or in the suburbs.

The manufacturing advantages of the city are the greatest in this section, which fact is being recognized rapidly by the establishment of such industries as cotton seed oil refining mill, hosiery and underwear factories, fertilizer works, veneer plants, woodworking establishments, furniture, paper, cotton seed meal, soap and many other of the staple products.

The largest government navy yard, covering over 350 acres of land, with three large dry docks, and another to be built which Congress has just authorized at a cost of $3,000,000.00 together with $5,000,000.00 of other improvements found necessary for the building of battleships and destroyers. Over 4,000 wage-earners are constantly employed in this great workshop. The city has fifty large industries, employing approximately 9,000 wage-earners; thirty miles of electric railways; five miles or more of deep water front; the normal outlet of a large section of the South's most productive country; over $9,000,000.00 invested in manufacturing plants; connected by eight large railway systems and fifteen steamship lines; the garden truck spot of the world; banking institutions with surplus exceeding the capital many times; a commodious harbor with thirty-five feet of water at low tide to the ocean, and the largest government shipbuilding plant in the United States.

Northampton was originally a portion of the county of Accomac. In 1642 the name was changed from Accomac to Northampton. Afterwards the name of Accomac was resumed, and in 1663 the territory was divided into Accomac and Northampton counties, and forms what is familiarly known as the Eastern Shore of Virginia. The records of Northampton county are well preserved, being an unbroken chain from 1632 to this date. The Atlantic ocean is on the east and the Chesapeake bay on the west and southern headland. Its shores are indented their entire length by many rivers, bays and inlets, which contain fish and oysters of superior excellence and variety, in great numbers, and furnish food and occupation to a large portion of the inhabitants. The fisheries are extensive and valuable. The lands are fertile, and the county contains some very fine farms. Irish potatoes, sweet potatoes and corn are the principal crops upon which this county depends—the principal of these being Irish potatoes. The products are corn, rye, fruits and vegetables, the trucking quality of the land being excelled by few counties of the State. Most of the trade of Northampton is with Baltimore, between which city and various towns on the Eastern Shore regular steamers and sailing vessels are constantly plying. The New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk Railroad Company gives the county convenient and quick transportation to the principal markets of the North. The Cape Charles Railroad Company, a branch of the above railroad, has extended its lines from Cape Charles City to the extreme lower part of the county.

Northumberland county, which was no doubt formed from York, is first mentioned in Acts of Assembly, 1645, and represented that year by John Matrum. It must, therefore, have been formed during or before 1645. The county lies on the Chesapeake Bay, at the mouth of the Potomac river. Richmond, Westmoreland and Lancaster counties are on the west. The industries of the county, though principally agricultural, are more varied than in less favored localities. Its bay and river coastline of forty miles, besides the inland river and creeks, many of whom are navigable for some distance from their mouths, offer unparalleled facilities for commerce, fishing, oystering and the shooting of geese and other aquatic birds. Its timber lands annually yield vast quantities of cord wood, railroad ties, ship timber, wharf piles, hoop poles, etc.; while the cultivated portions yield fine harvests of wheat, corn, oats, rye, buckwheat, sweet and Irish potatoes, with an abundance of garden vegetables, and fruits of all kinds of the finest quality. The population is steadily increasing. The manufacture of oil, and a valuable fertilizer, commonly known as "chum," from the fish called alewives, though comparatively a new branch of industry in this section, has rapidly increased in value and importance since its introduction in 1874. Thousands of barrels of oil and tons of chum are annually manufactured and this fertilizer is extensively used by agriculturists in this and many of the adjoining counties, having, because of its cheapness, convenience and adaptability to the soil, to a great extent taken the place of the manipulated guanos heretofore in general use. The fishing and manufacturing seasons last from five to six months, and gives lucrative employment to from three hundred to four hundred men and from forty to fifty vessels.

Nottoway was formed 1788 from Amelia, and named from a tribe of Indians by which it was once inhabited. Its mother county is on the north, Lunenburg and Brunswick on the south, Dinwiddie on the east, and Prince Edward on the west. The Nottoway river skirts its southern border, while the Little Nottoway, and other tributaries of the Nottoway, on the south, and many branches of the Appomattox on the north, extend into and water different sections. The Norfolk and Western and the Southern railroads intersect at Burkeville, furnishing facilities to market for the products of the county. Corn, oats, wheat and tobacco are the principal crops, the annual yield of the latter—exceeding one and a half million pounds. The minerals are soapstone and kaolin, and the timbers are pine, oak, hickory, walnut, chestnut, poplar, cedar and ash.

Orange county was formed from Spotsylvania in 1734 and derives its name from the color of soil. The Rapid Ann river forms its northern boundary, separating it from Madison and Culpeper, with Louisa on the south, Spotsylvania county on the east and Greene on the west. The lands of Orange are based on a sub-stratum of red clay and are well adapted to the production of wheat, tobacco, corn and the artificial grasses. The raising of cattle and sheep is extensively carried on, and there is abundant water power on the Rapid Ann and North Anna rivers. A vein of limestone passes through the county, which is used for agricultural and mechanical purposes. Gold and plumbago are also found, the former in that part of the county adjoining Spotsylvania. The other minerals are iron (brown and red hematite magnetic), asbestos, marble and fire clay. The timbers are hickory, oak, walnut, chestnut and poplar. The Southern Railway traverses the county from north to south and the Potomac, Fredericksburg and Piedmont (a narrow gauge railroad) from Orange C H.

Page was formed in 1831 from Shenandoah and Rockingham. It is midway in the rich and beautiful valley of the Shenandoah, with the Blue Ridge for its eastern and the Massanutton mountains its western boundaries. It is bounded on the north by Warren; south by Rockingham; east by Rappahannock and Madison; and west by Rockingham and Shenandoah. The south fork of the Shenandoah river flows through and plentifully waters the county. The Norfolk and Western railroad extends through the entire length of the county from north to south, and is doing much to develop its vast resources. The soil is alluvial limestone, and yields good crops of corn, oats, wheat and the grasses. Horses, cattle and sheep are extensively raised. Iron ore of fair quality, in abundant quantity, is found in nearly every part of the county, and several furnaces and foundries are in operation. Some copper of rich quality is found in the lower end of the county, and limestone and marble in various sections. A superior quality of manganese is found in the northern section of the county, and is being shipped to Northern furnaces.

Patrick was formed from Henry in 1791, and is the only county in the State that has extended the honor of its name to any of its sub-divisions. It lies on the eastern slope of the Blue Ridge mountains, which separate it from Carroll and Floyd counties. Franklin county is on the north and Henry on the east, while the State of North Carolina forms its southern boundary. Its natural scenery is romantic and wild. The Dan, Smith and Mayo rivers take their rise in this county, and, extending through its every part, plentifully water and furnish it with abundant power for the operating of mills and iron and machine works. The Danville and Western and Mt Airy and Eastern railroads furnish convenient transportation to market for the manufactures and products. The face of the country is broken, much of the western part being mountainous and unimproved, but the "Meadows of Dan" section and that portion south of the Bull mountains are remarkably rich and productive and well adapted to the growth of tobacco, corn, buckwheat and the grasses. Fine cattle, horses and sheep are raised, and the orchard, dairy and garden products are varied and valuable. Patrick is one of the best fruit growing counties in this State, and many thousand barrels are annually shipped to the Northern markets. The increased facilities of transportation will give to the industries of the people such impetus as they never enjoyed before. The ores found in the county are iron (magnetic), lead, zinc, copper and silver. Granite and sandstone are also quarried to some extent. The rocks of the county are gneiss, talco-chloritic slate and micaceous slates. There are numerous dilks of quartzite and parphoritic granite, and among them the far-famed "fairy stones." There are several sulphur springs, which have a local reputation. The timbers, in which the county abounds, are oak, pine, locust and walnut.

County Seat—Chatham

This county was formed in 1767 from Halifax, and borders the North Carolina line; in fact the principal part of the business of Danville, its principal city, is with the bordering State. The counties of Campbell and Bedford are on the north, Halifax on the east, and Franklin and Henry on the west. The Staunton river skirts the centre northern border, the Pig river, its principal tributary, extending through the northwestern part. The headwaters of the Banister drain its middle and eastern parts, and the Dan, which runs through the southern part, receives into it the Sandy, Birch and several other minor streams which have their rise in the southern and middle parts of the county. Pittsylvania is well supplied with railroad facilities. The lands are of superior quality, particularly along the Dan and Banister rivers. The principal crop is tobacco, the Little and Big Orinocos being more generally cultivated than any other. In the quantity grown, Pittsylvania nearly doubles any other county, producing annually the enormous quantity of twelve and a half million pounds. In the production of oats it is also first. Indian corn to a large amount, besides fair average crops of wheat and rye, are also grown. The dairy and orchard products are extensive, and add largely to the revenue of the county. Iron ore is found in great abundance in the northern and western portions of the county, and coal of superior quality on the North Carolina line. Gold, copper, lead, managanese, marble, ochre and asbestos are also found. The timbers are hickory, oak, chestnut, walnut and pine.

Danville is located in the southern portion of Pittsylvania county, Virginia, three and a half miles from the North Carolina line. Has a population of 25,000. Owns its own water, gas and electric plant.

It is situated on many hills, whose feet are washed by a bold river, with sewerage underlying the whole city; the hygienic and health conditions are perfect. The water supply flows from the Blue Ridge mountains into a settling basin, filtered in the most improved way, and by repeated analyses has been pronounced absolutely pure.

Tobacco is the chief industry of the city, though many other large manufacturing enterprises are situated here. It is the largest loose leaf tobacco market in the world. With fifty-seven independent buyers competing with the American, Imperial, R. J. Reynolds and other large companies, the highest prices are secured thereby.

Capital invested in the manufacturing enterprises, such as cotton mills, overall factories, knitting mills, elevator factories, flouring and grist mills, lumber manufacturing companies, and other smaller enterprises, amounts to $11,330,250. Danville invites emigration and migration. We have ample water and electrical power, valuable sites that can be bought at a mere nominal sum for manufacturing purposes, a generous and noble people who are always glad to welcome new-comers, a large and flourishing retail trade.

County Seat—Powhatan.

This county was formed in 1777 from Cumberland, and lies between the James river on the north and the Appomattox, a navigable stream on the south, and is seperated by the former from Goochland, and the latter from Amelia counties. Chesterfield bounds it on the east and Cumberland on the west. There are many tributary creeks which flow into the above named rivers, and furnished excellent water power and drainage. The Southern Railway crosses the southeastern angle and the Chesapeake and Ohio skirts the northern border of the county on the north bank of the James river, and the Tidewater and Western railroad traverses the county from east to west, a distance of twenty-six miles, following the Buckingham road affording very good transportation facilities.

The lands, particularly those on the river, are fertile, and excellent crops of tobacco, corn, oats, wheat, and the grasses are raised. Tobacco is the principal production, the annual yield amounting to one million pounds. Coal underlies a large portion of the county bordering on the James river. Mica and plumbago are also found in the southern part of the county.

There are several sulphur and chalybiate springs in the county. The timbers of the county are oak, walnut, pine, chestnut, hickory beach and dogwood.

This county was formed in 1753 from Amelia, and lies on the south bank of the Appomattox river, which seperates it from Cumberland and Buckingham counties. Charlotte and Lunenburg are on the south, Nottoway on the east, and Appomattox and Charlotte on the west. Its northern part is watered by the Appomatox and its branches, and its southern and middle parts by the Bush, Sandy, and other branches of the Meherrin river. The Southern railway crosses its southern angle and the Norfolk and Western extends through it east and west near its northern limits and the Virginian through the southern part of the county.

The surface is rolling and the lands are generally of good quality, and there are some very fine estates in the county. The principal products are tobacco, corn, oats and wheat.

Prince George County

Value of real estate, 1916—White, $2,796,832; colored, $282,707. Total, $3,079,539.

Value of personal property—White, $1,078,193; colored, $105,017. Total, $1,183,210.

Income—$11,925.

Population, 1916—7,848.

Number voters—White, 876; colored, 853.

Area—Acres, 182,156; square miles, 279.

County Seat—Prince George.

This county was formed in 1732 from Charles City and is on the south bank of the James river which separates it from Charles City county. It is triangular in shape, and has for its bounds on the south and east Sussex and Surry, and West Dinwiddie counties.

The lands of this county are generally thin, though there are extensive tracts of valuable alluvial lands. The products are principally wheat, corn, tobacco, peanuts, and some cotton.

The Norfolk and Western railway traverses the central and northwestern parts, which furnishes ample transportation facilities. Prince George is seven miles east of the city of Petersburg. City Point, on the James at the mouth of the Appomattox, is of considerable commercial consequence. It was the place, during the war, where supplies were received by the Federal troops while engaged in their operations around Petersburg, and at this time the E. I. Dupont De Nemors Company has one of the largest powder plants in the world for the manufacture of gun cotton. It is estimated that the population in and around City Point and the city of Hopewell amounts to about 25,000.

Value of personal property—White, $1,661,920; colored, $60,182. Total, $1,722,102.

Income—$13,115.

Population, 1916—12,026.

Number voters—White, 2,044; colored, 426.

Area—Acres, 249,885; square miles, 349.

County Seat—Manassas.

Prince William county lies on the Potomac river, with Fairfax on the north and Stafford on the south, Fauquier on the west and the State of Maryland is on the east. The county was formed from Stafford and King George in 1730. The surface is rolling and well watered, and some portions of the county contains as fine farms as are to be found anywhere in the State.

The Potomac river skirts its entire eastern border, while the Occoquan, a tributary of the Potomac, is on its northern border for about half the distance, at which point it deflects and stretches across the county from north to south, well watering by its numerous branches the greater part of the county. The Occoquan is extended on the northern to the extreme limit of the county by the Bull river. The main track of the Southern Railway traverses the county from north to south, and the Manassas division, same line, from a central point in the county to its western confines. The Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac railroad also extends through the county near and on line with the Potomac river. The lands of this section are very good and produce very fine crops of corn, oats, wheat and the grasses. Horses, cattle and sheep are raised in large numbers for the northern markets.

There are a number of fine dairy farms which furnish large quantities of dairy products for the Washington, D. C., markets.

The Eighth Congressional District Agricultural High School is situated at Manassas, and has been the means of greatly improving the farming, dairying, poultry raising and other industries of the county.

Quantico, a small village, situated on the Potomac river, and R. F. & P. railroad, has lately come into great prominence on account of its splendid location for a manufacturing centre.

It is situated 27 miles from the National Capital, and has excellent water and railroad facilities, as well as being surrounded by a fertile and healthful country. It has recently been laid out as a city, and lots are being sold. It promises to be a great success.

County Seat—Princess Anne.

This county was formed from Norfolk county in 1691. It lies on the Atlantic ocean, with the Chesapeake Bay on the north, Norfolk county on the west and North Carolina on the south. The lands are generally good, though the best are those denominated swamp lands, in Holland Swamp, Eastern Shore Swamp and Blackwater. The lands in the Pungo district are as fine trucking lands as can be found in Virginia. There are also fine lands on the borders of the creeks and inlets. A large portion of the county is devoted to truck farming, and immense quantities of vegetables and fruits are annually shipped to the northern markets via Norfolk.

North river, Back bay, Lynnhaven river and tributary streams and the eastern branch of the Elizabeth river are navigable for small vessels. The Albemarle and Chesapeake canal connects North River and Currituck Sound with the Elizabeth river, affording fine water communication with the eastern part of North Carolina and all points south. The fisheries on Cape Henry and Atlantic Beach, Lynnhaven river and bay, are very valuable. The finest oysters in the world are taken from Lynnhaven river and its tributaries. The Norfolk and Southern railroad running from Norfolk to Virginia Beach on the Atlantic ocean has opened one of the finest watering places and summer resorts on the Atlantic coast.

County Seat—Pulaski.

This county was formed in 1839 from Montgomery and Wythe, and named in honor of the Count Pulaski, a hero of the Revolution. This is one of the rich counties of the far-famed Southwest Virginia. It lies in the valley formed by the Walkers and Poplar Camp mountains, and has for its boundaries the counties of Montgomery on the east and Wythe on the west.

The lands are very productive, and yield large crops of corn, wheat, oats, rye, etc. The soil is also well adapted to the growth of the domestic grasses, and the raising of fat cattle for the eastern and foreign markets is extensively carried on. Sheep-raising is largely conducted and mills are in operation for the manufacture of woolen goods, which find ready sale.

New river traverses the southern portion of the county, and skirts its northwestern boundary.

The main stem of the Norfolk and Western railroad traverses the county from northeast to northwest, and the New River branch of the same road extends north, following the course of the New river and opening up a rich mineral section. Iron, coal, zinc and lead abound and there are several mines and furnaces in operation.

County Seat—Washington

The county was formed from Culpeper in 1831, and lies at the eastern base of the Blue Ridge mountains, which divide it from Warren and Page counties. Fauquier is on the northeast, Culpeper on the southeast, and Madison on the southwest. It is well watered by the headwaters of the North fork of Rappahannock river, which furnishes most excellent mill power. The lands are generally fertile and produce good crops wheat, corn, oats, tobacco, rye and buckwheat, and all kinds of fruit, for which latter both soil and climate are especially adapted. Tnere is a large quantity of fine grazing lands in this county, and a great number of fine fat cattle, sheep and hogs are annually shipped to the eastern markets. There are large tracts of timber land along the Blue Ridge line, the owners of which await only a better means of transportation that now available to cut it. It is said there are various kinds of minerals, but they are as yet undeveloped. Magnetic iron ore of fine quality has been recently discovered, and there is mineral water, which is of certain benefit in all cases of dyspepsia and kindred diseases. Apple growing has reached the most profitably industry in this county. Hundreds of thousands of barrels of apples are grown, and with the improved system of marketing, owing to macadam roads and auto trucks, the industry has become highly profitable. Apples grown in this county have frequently received the highest prices paid on the foreign markets, owing to the excellent flavor of the fruit. There are now about twenty miles of new macadam roads in the county, just constructed, running from the center of the county to Front Royal, the nearest railroad station; a local corporation operates a line of automobile trucks, both freight and passenger, making two round trips a day; the railroad may now be reached within an hour from the central parts of the county, and by traveling in as much comfort as in a railway passenger coach.

This county was formed in 1692. Its low grounds are very fertile, producing fine crops of wheat, corn and tobacco. The upper lands, known in the county as "forest lands," are rolling, the soil being a sandy loam and susceptible of a high state of cultivation. The river along its front abounds in fine oysters and fish, the shad and herring fisheries being exceptionally productive and profitable.

This county was formed from Botetourt in 1838, and lies in the Roanoke Valley, the Blue Ridge forming its eastern boundary, with Botetourt on the northeast and Montgomery on the west, Floyd and Franklin on the south, Bedford on the east and Craig on the northwest. The soil is particularly adapted to the raising of corn, oats, wheat, rye, barley, hay, as well as vegetables and fruits of every description. This county, in common with all the others in this section of the State, is famous for its fine pasturage. The Norfolk and Western and the Virginian railways pass through the county, furnishing transportation to all parts of the county. The mineral deposits, the chief of which is iron, are very valuable. The mineral springs, of which there are several, enjoy a high reputation for the medicinal properties of their waters.

Roanoke is situated in the Roanoke Valley of Virginia, between the Blue Ridge and the Alleghany Mountains, the Roanoke river flowing along its southern border. It is 1,000 feet above sea level.

Its water supply is unsurpassed by that of any city of like size in the country and is furnished by the famous Crystal Spring, located at the base of Mill Mountain, a short distance from the city, supplying five millions of gallons per day. A freestone water adapted to manufacturing purposes, is also piped from Bedford county

Roanoke's ideal location, high altitude, fine sanitation and unexcelled water supply, combine to make the city a most healthful place for residence.

There has been a marked increase in the growth of manufacturing industries in the city. Including the force at work at the Roanoke Machine Works, where a portion of the equipment of the Norfolk and Western Railway Company is built, and where heavy repairs to engines and cars are made, it is safe to estimate that fully 4,000 men are employed by the various manufacturing enterprises of the city. In addition to this about 700 clerks and officials are employed in the general offices of the Railway Company. The payrolls of the machine works and railway offices aggregate $150,000 per month.

Roanoke is steadily increasing in importance as a distributing point for all classes of merchandise and manufactured articles. Situated at the gateway of Southwest Virginia, in close proximity to and in direct communication with the Virginia and West Virginia coal fields, and being furthermore a junction point, which assures especially low freight rates, Roanoke's wholesale merchants are afforded exceptional advantages in easily reaching their trade, and being able to compete with houses located in the larger trade centers of the East and North.

The banks of the city are under intelligent and conservative management, and their statements show them all to be in flourishing condition.

In 1881, Roanoke was a village with less than 600 inhabitants, having perhaps 125 buildings. In 1884, it had reached a population of about 5,000, and was chartered as a city. The United States census of 1890 gave it 16,159; that of 1900, 21,495.

Roanoke is in a position to offer special inducements to manufacturing plants, as it is on the line of one of the greatest railway systems in the country, and, being a junction point, special freight rates can be secured. The building of the Virginian Railway, from the coal fields to the seaboard, will afford additional railway facilities.

County Seat—Lexington.

This county, formed from Augusta and Botetourt in 1778, is one of the largest, most populous and flourshing in the State. It is situated in the Valley of Virginia, with Augusta and Bath on the northeast and northwest; Botetourt on the southwest, and Bedford and Amherst on the southeast; Nelson on its eastern centre and Alleghany on its western central part.

The lands through the central portion of the county are very fertile and highly improved, but those on the eastern and western borders, being mountainous, are sparsely settled and comparatively but little cultivated. The mineral deposits in this county are very rich, iron ore of great purity abounding in various sections, and a number of mines and furnaces being profitably operated.

The mineral deposits include besides iron ore, manganese, kaolin, baryta, ochre, limestones of lithographic character, and finishing marbles of superior quality, especially that in the neighborhood of Craigsville and in the northeast part of the county, unsurpassed in beauty and variety, for "inside work."

On James river, two miles above the mouth of North river a limestone furnishing a first-class hydraulic cement is found. At the mouth of North river sand for making glass has been discovered.

Tin ore has been discovered in various places, on Irish creek, in the South Mountain, in this county, about eight or ten miles from Vesuvius and Midvale Stations on the Norfolk and Western Railway, and is attracting the attention of capitalists. One of the mines has been opened and the ore promises to be of a very superior quality, and in great quantity.

The railroad facilities in this county for travel and transportation are extraordinarily good.

The scenery in many portions of Rockbridge is very grand and picturesque, and the county contains many points of great interest to the traveler and pleasure-seeker, among which may be mentioned the Natural Bridge, so famous as being one of the greatest natural curiosities in the world, and from which the county takes its name. The mineral springs of the Rockbridge Alum, Cold Sulphur, Wilson White Sulphur and Rockbridge Baths, all popular places of resort, are in this county. Superior bass fishing is found in the County Seat—Harrisonburg.

Rockingham was formed from Augusta in 1778, and is one of the richest agricultural counties in the State. It borders on the State of West Virginia, from which the North or Shenandoah Mountains seperate it. The Blue Ridge Mountains extend along its farthest eastern border dividing it from Albemarle and Greene, and the Massanutton range extend into it at the elbow cutting it off from Page. Shenandoah county is on the north and its mother county on the south.

It is well watered, the main stream of the Shenandoah running through the eastern portion, the North river draining the southern portion, the North fork of the Shenandoah running through the north-western part, and Smith's creek, a branch of the latter, the central portion. The Harper's Ferry branch Baltimore and Ohio Railroad extends through the middle part from north to south, and the Norfolk and Western railway in same direction through its eastern part, along the base of the Blue Ridge. The Chesapeake-Western Ry connects with the N. & W. at Elkton and runs southwest through the county. These roads furnish ample facilities for moving the large quanity of grain and vast number of cattle raised in the county. The soil is very rich, producing large crops of corn, oats, rye, wheat, barley and buckwheat. In the production of wheat it is the second in the State, Augusta alone surpassing it by a few thousand bushels. Nearly half the whole amount or barley produced in the State is from this county. The manufacture of flour has long been the leading interest in this county, and the brands are in the greatest demand in all the markets. The county abounds in limestone in almost every part, and marble of several varieties is found. Iron ore, copper and coal also abound, the former and latter in considerable quanities, and there are several foundries and furnices in operation.

County Seat—Lebanon

This county was formed in 1786 from Washington, and lies between the dividing ridge; Sandy Ridge on the north and Clinch mountain range on the south. Tazewell county is on the east and Scott and Wise on the west. The surface is generally mountainous, and the lands for the most part uncultivated. There are some very rich tracts in the valleys and along the rivers, which produce large and fine crops, far exceeding the average in most of the other counties of the State. The principal productions are corn, wheat, oats, rye, buckwheat and apples. The raising of cattle and sheep, of improved breed, is extensively carried on, and constitutes one of the principal industries of the inhabitants, many thousands being annually shipped to the markets of the North and Europe.

The Clinch river and its branches, and Moccasin creek, a branch of the Holston river, extend through and plentifully water the county. The Clinch Valley dividsion of the Norfolk and Western Railroad runs through the county from east to west. Iron are (red and brown hematite) is found in various parts of the county, as is also the case with the manganese, lead, barytes and marble. Numerous coal deposits are found in the northern part, which are being rapidly developed, there being several coal operations in the county.

This county was formed in 1814 from Washington, Russell and Lee, and is the middle one of the three Tennessee border counties. Wise county is on the north, Washington and Russell on the east, and Lee on the west. The surface is for the most part mountainous, the Clinch, Moccasin and Copper mountain ridges stretch through its middle part, Powell's and Stone mountains are on its western confines, and Walker's range crosses it southeastern point.

The county is well watered by the Clinch river and its branches and the North Fork of the Holston. While they do not furnish facilities for transportation, are valuable for the operation of saw and other mills and machinery.

Though the face of the county is, as we have stated, mountainous and uneven, yet there is a vast deal of it very productive, and large crops of corn, wheat, rye, oats and buckwheat are raised. This section is celebrated for its fine cattle, sheep and other stock, and for the production of maple sugar, fruit, butter and other dairy and garden articles. Inexhaustible beds of iron ore (red and brown hematite) are found in this county, and Manganese, lead, coal, marble of various kinds, and limestone in abundance. There are several sulphur and chalybeate springs, the remedial properties of whose waters are considered fine.

County Seat—Woodstock.

This county was formed from Frederick in 1772, and was originally called Dunmore. In 1777 the name was changed to Shenandoah. It lies on the West Virginia line, with Rockingham on the south, Frederick on the north, and Warren and Page on the east. This county, in common with all those lying in this section of the State, is noted for the productiveness of its soil and for the high state of cultivation which characterizes all its improved lands. It is justly called the garden spot of Old Virginia, and in no section of the country can be seen more valuable lands than are found in Shenantoan and the adjoining counties.

In recent years a great many orchards, ranging in area from 10 to 600 acres, have been planted, and now thousands of barrels of apples, rated among the best, are annually shipped from the county.

The valley is well watered by the north branch of the Shenandoah river, which traverses its entire length. The eastern and western sections being comprised of mountain ranges, are much more sparsely settled than the middle portion. It should be mentioned that Shenandoah is one of the great flour-producing counties of the State.

Iron ore, coal, lead, copper, ochre and other valuable minerals are found in various sections. Efforts are being made to develop the mineral resources of the county, with good prospects, the deposits being large and plentiful. The Valley branch of the Southern Railroad traverses the county from north to south.

Value of personal property—White, $1,539,552; colored, $11,660. Total, $1,551,212.

County Seat—Marion.

Smyth county was formed from Washington and Wythe in 1832. It lies in the valley formed by the Alleghany and Clinch mountains, with Washington county on the western and Wythe and Bland on the eastern borders. The valley lands are very fertile, and the upper lands produce the spontaneous blue grass upon which large herds of cattle are annually raised. The county is drained by the North, Middle and South forks of the Holston river, which have their rise in this county, while the Norfolk and Western railroad extends through its middle part east and west. It has been demonstrated by actual experience within the last few years that the county (especially the Rich Valley and Chestnut Ridge sections) cannot be surpassed for production of tobacco—either fine yellow or heavy shipping. Corn, wheat, oats and buckwheat are grown in paying quantities, and the dairy and orchard products are varied and valuable. Iron ore, limestone and salt are found in great abundance, as are also lead, copper, gypsum and marble.

Southampton was formed from Isle of Wight in 1748. It lies on the North Carolina line, south of Sussex, with Greensville on the west and Isle of Wight and Nansemond on the east. The lands are much worn, through naturally very productive. With generous treatment the soil yields fine crops of cotton, corn, wheat, oats, tobacco and peanuts. In the first named crop Southampton outranks all the other counties of the State, raising over 5,000 bales annually. The Meherrin river skirts the western and much of the southern borders, the Blackwater its eastern, and the Nottoway extends through its centre from north to south plentifully watering its every part. The Nottoway and Blackwater from the Chowan on the southeastern corner of this county. The Seaboard Air Line railroad traverses the southern portion of the county, the Southern and the Virginian railways pass through the central part of the county, and the Norfolk and Western railroad crosses its northern limits.

County Seat—Spotsylvania.

This county, lying due north from Richmond, was formed from Essex, King William and King and Queen in 1720, while Alexander Spotswood was colonial governor of Virginia. Culpeper and Stafford are on the north, Louisa and Hanover on the south, Carolina on the east, and Orange on the west. The Rappahannock river skirts its northern and the North Anna river its southern boundary, while the interior portion of the county is drained by the headwaters of the North Anna and Mattaponi. The surface is rolling and the lands are very productive, yielding good crops of corn, wheat and oats, while products of the dairy and orchard are considerable. The Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac railroad touches the northeastern portion of the county, and the Potomac, Fredericksburg and Piedmont road extends from Fredericksburg to Orange Court House, a distance of forty miles, connecting with the Southern railway, by which means a large additional trade is given to the former place. Spotsylvania lies in the gold belt of Virginia, and several mines have been in operation for some time with varying success. There are also numbers of iron mines.

This is one of the leading cities of the State. It is located on the Rappahannock river, at the head of navigation, and is halfway between Richmond and Washington. Two railroads and a navigable river afford excellent transportation facilities.

There is an abundance of cheap hydro-electric power, which has attracted a number of manufactories, including a silk mill, woolen mill, sumac extract works, excelsior mills, mattress factory, wood-working plants, plow works, flour mills and others. Labor conditions are good and the cost of living is low.

Fredericksburg is also an important commercial town, since all of the trading of a large section of fertile country is done there. There are four good banks; four newspapers; an active Chamber of Commerce.

Municipal affairs are conducted by a City Manager. The city owns its gas, water and sewer systems. Taxes are low and the citizens are prosperous. With its wide, clean streets; beautiful shade trees and attractive homes, Fredericksburg is a good place to live. Many good business opportunities are awaiting development.

Population, 1916—8,070.

Number voters—White, 1,488; colored, 270.

Area—Acres, 169,141; square miles, 260.

County Seat—Stafford.

Stafford lies on the Potomac river, and was formed from Westmoreland in 1675. It is bounded on the north by Prince William, on the west by Fauquier and Culpeper, and on the south of Spotsylvania, from which latter county it is separated by the Rappahannock river. The surface is generally rolling and the soil naturally good, yielding splendid returns with fair treatment. Corn, oats and wheat are raised in paying quantities, and the garden and orchard products are large and valuable. The eastern border is indented for its entire length by numerous creeks, which irrigate and drain the eastern and middle parts, and are navigable to considerable length and contain great quantity and variety of fish that form an important article in the food supply of the county and branch of industry of the people. They also furnish most excellent power for mills and machinery. Copowamsic, the principal of these creeks, forms the boundary between this and Prince William county. The Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac railroad traverses the county north and south on line of and near the Potomac river. Gold, iron, lead, limestone and marble are found in considerable quantities.

County Seat—Surry.

This county lies on the south side of the James river, between Prince George on the west and Isle of Wight on the south and east. It was formed from James City county in 1652. The Blackwater river skirts the southwestern part for a considerable distance, separating it from Sussex.

Formerly this county contained some of the richest estates in Virginia bordering on the James. The farms are being gradually improved and rapidly recovering their antebellum fertility and productiveness, and this section may be said to be as prosperous as that of any in the State. The Norfolk and Western railroad extends through Sussex very near and on the line with the entire southwestern border. Large quantities of peanuts are raised annually and the lands adapted to their growth are rapidly increasing in value. The narrow guage of the Southern Railway crosses the county from north to south, the terminus being Claremont on James river, and the Surry, Sussex and Southampton Railway, another narrow guage line, crosses the county in the same direction, the terminus being Scotland on the same river. The county roads are being gradually improved and compare favorably with any dirt roads in the State.

Value of personal property—White, $2,510,862; colored, $35,841. Total, $2,546,703.

Population, 1916—24,946.

Number voters—White, 4,344; colored, 375.

Area—Acres, 304,837; square miles, 528.

County Seat—Tazewell.

This county was formed in 1799 from Russell and Wythe and is one of the extreme Southwestern counties, lying on the borders of West Virginia, in the Appalachain chain of mountains. The surface is very mountainous, and while its soil is exceedingly fertile, but comparatively a small area is adapted or given to the raising of cereals, the principal of which are corn, wheat and oats. Like other counties in this section of the State it is very productive in grasses, especially the blue grass, and the grazing of cattle, sheep and horses comprises one of the main sources of revenue to the inhabitants.

It is noted for high class saddle horses, export cattle and excellent quality of lambs marketed. The blue grass is of such excellence that cattle and sheep are finished and marketed from the sod.

The development of the Pocahontas and Clinch Valley coal fields within and on the borders of the county (the famous Pocahontas Collieries being located in the Northeastern part, and other operations at Seaboard, Raven and Richlands) has opened up a home market unsurpassed in any section of the country.

The New River Division of the N. & W. Ry. runs through the Northeastern limits of the county, and a line has recently been projected from its Pocahontas terminal through the northern part, which is rich in coal and timber, to the waters of Dry Fork, to connect with the Iaeger & Southern, which is being graded up Dry Fork. The Clinch Valley Division of said railway runs through the county its entire length nearly in the center, from Graham, its eastern terminal, up Wrights Valley, across the Divides at Tip Top and down Clinch Valley, which it follows for many miles, affording marketing facilities for its vast timber and mineral wealth.

The Dry Fork Branch of the N. & W. Ry., from Cedar Bluff in Tazewell county, Va., to Canebrake, in McDowell county, W. Va., connecting its Clinch Valley Branch with the Iaeger and Southern Branch, relieving to some extent the congested traffic on some of its lines, as well as opening up and developing large areas of timber and coal bearing lands, was completed in 1913 and a regular schedule for mail and passenger service established over this cut off.

Large deposits of iron ore are found in the county, but are undeveloped on account of remoteness from railroads.

The county affords a great variety of timber, among which may be mentioned poplar, cucumber, white, black, spanish and other species of oak, white and black walnut, beech, chestnut, maple sugar tree, buckeye, hickory, ash, lynn, spruce and hemlock. It is well watered by living streams flowing towards most every point of the compass.

Clinch river, the principal one, rises seven miles east of the county seat, and flows southwest through the county, is fed by never-failing limestone springs, and furnishes power to a few mills and factories on its course, but as yet its power is practically undeveloped, and the limited amount used is merely suggestive of its future possibilities.

The far-famed and historic Burke's Garden, an eliptical plateau 3,000 feet above sea level, with an area of some 20,000 acres, entirely surrounded by mountains with the exception of a single gorge, through which its waters find a tortuous exit, forms the southeast corner of the county. To the people who went up and possessed this land it is a source of joy forever, and to the visitor a spot of wondrous beauty.

Its soil is generous, and so imbued with the idea of its potency are its sons, that a famous surgeon, a loyal descendant, residing at the capital of the State, keeps a bottle of it on his mantlepiece to be mingled with the dust of his last resting place if planted in foreign soil.

The county is famed for the surpassing beauty of its scenery. Its inhabitants are intelligent, healthy, prosperous and happy, and the strenuous life is scarcely known.

County Seat—Front Royal

This county was formed from Frederick and Shenandoah in 1836, and lies on the western slope of the Blue Ridge Mountains, between Clarke and Page counties with the Massanutton range forming a part of the western boundary. The lands are very fertile, producing fine crops of wheat, corn, oats, rye, hemp and all the varieties of grasses. The Manassas branch of the Southern Railway enters the county on the east at Manassas Gap and taps the Valley Branch Railroad at Strasburg on the west. The Shenandoah river traverses the county centrally from its southern to its northern limits, and the numerous tributaries to this stream afford an abundant supply of water in all parts of the county. The Norfolk and Western railway, one of the great connecting lines between the North and South, follows the course of the river nearly its entire length, furnishing convenient and quick transportation to the markets and business centers of the country. Iron, copper, ochre and umber are found in considerable quantities in the county.

This county, next to Elizabeth City, is the smallest in the State. It was one of the original shires and was, when formed in 1634, called Warwick River, but was changed to Warwick in 1642. It lies on the north side of James river, with York county on the north, Elizabeth City on the east, and James City on the west, and is comprised in a narrow strip of country extending from Newport News nearly to Williamsburg, in James City county. The Chesapeake and Ohio Railway traverses the county east and west, and has its eastern terminus at Newport News. The lands are fertile, producing very fine crops, and the trade in oysters is an important feature of the county.

Newport News is the terminus of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, and besides has the largest shipbuilding plant and dry dock in this country. The shipyard employs between 7,000 and 8,000 men with a pay roll of $65,000 per week.

There are five regular lines of steamships running between this and home ports, and five regular lines to foreign ports besides many tramp steamships which load here.

County Seat—Abingdon.

Washington lies in the Southwestern portion of the State, the Clinch mountains, which separate it from Russell, forming the northern and the Tennessee line the southern boundary, with Smyth and Grayson counties on the east, and Scott on the west. The county was formed in 1776 from Fincastle. It is watered by the three branches of the Holston river, which afford a variety of excellent fresh-water fish. The Norfolk and Western Railroad extends through the middle part. The character of the country is undulating, the soil fertile and productive, abounding in the spontaneous growth of blue grass, and well adapted to the cultivation of clover and other grasses. Fruits of various kinds grow to perfection. Abundant crops of corn, wheat, rye, oats, tobacco, hemp, &c., are raised annually.

The raising of improved breeds of horses, cattle and sheep is extensively carried on in many parts of the county. Inexhaustible beds of gypsum (plaster) and salt are found on the north fork of the Holston, and have been profitably worked for many years.

Some of the finest mineral waters to be had anywhere are located in this county. There are valuable springs whose waters are sulphur, chalybeate and alum. This county is celebrated for the number and high order of its institutions of learning.

Do You Earn Money? If you do—no matter how small your income may be—you can lay aside money. It isn't the size of your income that counts—it's the size of your Savings Account. $1.00 opens an account at - - THE VIRGINIA NATIONAL BANK, of Petersburg, Va.

Number voters—White, 1,265; colored 803.

County Seat—Montross.

Area—Acres, 140,779; square miles, 216.

Westmoreland was formed in 1653 from Northumberland, its northern border lying on the Potomac river. The Rappahannock river is on the southern boundary for about half of its length separating it from Essex county. Richmond county is on the other southern half. Northumberland is east, and King George west.

The Potomac boundary is indented by numerous creeks, the waters of which abound with the finest fish, oysters and wild fowl.

This is one of the oldest settled counties in the State, and in colonial days was immensely wealthy, the emmigrants from England comprising many of the rich and aristocratic families of the old country. There are many valuable and highly improved estates in the county, and by the more careful and thorough system of agricultural training which has been adopted within the past few years, the waste lands are being revived, and the farming interests throughout the county are generally improving. This county enjoys the proud distinction of having been the birth-place of two of the Presidents of the United States, George Washington and James Monroe, besides another no less honored and distinguished Virginian, General Robert E. Lee.

This county lies at the eastern base of the Cumberland mountains, in the extreme southwestern portion of the State, and was formed from Russell, Lee and Scott in 1856, and named in honor of General Henry A Wise, then Governor. Some of the finest timber lands in the State are found in this county. There is also an abundance of the finest of coal and coke and very large beds of iron ore; also very fine mineral springs. The surface is very broken and the county sparsely settled. The valley lands are quite rich, and large crops of Indian corn and buckwheat are raised, as well as oats and wheat. This county is also noted for having some of the finest grazing lands in the State. It is a fine fruit-growing section. The county is well watered by the Guest and Powell rivers, tributaries of the Clinch, in the southern and eastern portions, and by the branches of the Big Sandy in the northern part.

The classified lists in the Business Directory form the best Buyers Guide on earth. A modern up to date method of getting what you want. Polk.

County Seat—Wytheville

Wythe county was formed from Montgomery in 1790. Its county boundaries are Bland on the north, Carroll and Grayson on the south, Pulaski on the east, and Smyth on the west. The greater part of the county is a mountain valley, included between Brush mountain on the northwest and Iron mountain on the southeast. There are several other mountains within the county, the two largest of which are known as Walker's and Lick mountains, dividing the county into three fertile valleys—Walker's Creek, Wythe Valley and Cripple Creek. Wythe Valley is an elevated table land, about 2,000 feet above the level of the sea.

The Norfolk and Western railroad extends through the middle of the county from northwest to southeast, furnishing most excellent transportation facilities. The county is watered by New river, Reed creek, Walker's creek and Peak creek, and Cripple creek. The soil is well adapted to raising grain and the grasses.

County Seat—Yorktown.

This county was one of the original shires formed in 1634. It was originally Charles River county, but the name was changed to York in 1642. It lies on the south side of York river, a part of its northern boundary being the Chesapeake bay. James City, Warwick and Elizabeth City are the counties bordering on the southwest. The lands are generally of a good quality, and produce average crops of corn, wheat, oats, tobacco, etc. The waters of York abound in fine oysters, and the trade of this article of consumption is very extensive.

Yorktown, the county seat, is located at the mouth of York river, and is famous in history as having been the closing scene of the struggle for American independence. The monument erected by the United States government to commemorate the surrender of Cornwallis was completed in August, 1884, and is an imposing structure, 97 feet in height, with the crowning figure a woman 13 feet high, with arms extended, representing the Goddess of Peace. The faces of the base of the monument are adorned with the coats of arms of the United States and France and devices representing the products of the United States and suitable patriotic inscriptions. Above the base and around the beginning of the cylindical shafts are thirteen female figures, typifying the thirteen original colonies.
